FLOOR DEBATE

January 24, 2006 LB 875

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And FDIC is what they want.

SENATOR MINES: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Is there anything other than a bank insured by FDIC?

SENATOR MINES: There is. Where? S & Ls, of course, savings and loans.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Well, why savings and loans but not credit unions? Is it because they are insured by a different agency, credit unions?

SENATOR MINES: I believe so, and treated separately (inaudible).

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Is it believed that that insuring agency is less solvent or less reliable than FDIC?

SENATOR MINES: No, I don't believe so.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And I'm not trying to be argumentative.

SENATOR MINES: No. You're right.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Why then limit the institutions to those insured by FDIC?

SENATOR MINES: Again, this would be standard...

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay.

SENATOR CUDABACK: You may continue, and this will be your third time, as you know.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Already? Okay. Do any...does anybody else have a light on?
